

BEVERLEY TUCKER IS MADE DEACON

Bishop Tucker, Dr. Owens and Rev. P. W. Reed Officiate in Ceremony.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
NORFOLK, VA., September 6.—Before a congregation that filled old St. Paul's Church to the doors, and many in the audience knowing him from infancy, loving him almost as their own son in many instances, Beverly Dandridge Tucker, Jr., was ordained to the diaconate in the Protestant Episcopal Church this morning at 11 o'clock. Bishop Beverly D. Tucker, of the Southern Diocese of Virginia, and his father, officiating. Rev. Pembroke W. Reed, of Buffalo, N. Y., an old schoolmate of the candidate, and Rev. James M. Owens, rector of the church, assisted in the beautiful ceremony of the church.

The service was one of the prettiest ever held in old St. Paul's. In honor of the occasion, it had been profusely decorated with potted plants. Hailed in Norfolk and receiving his early Christian training in the Sunday school and church services of the parish, the congregation manifested the greatest interest. A special musical program was also rendered.

Ordnination. Bishop Tucker conducted the ordination ceremonies in person, and led in the laying on of hands by the ministry. Rev. Pembroke Reed, an old schoolmate, and formerly a pastor in Portsmouth, preached an able and interesting ordination sermon. Dr. Owens presented the candidate for raising to the diaconate in a few chosen words. Rev. Mr. Tucker will immediately take up his ministerial labors as the rector of the Episcopal Church at Boynton, Va. He is a brilliant young man, and is expected to make his mark in the sacred office.

Beverly Dandridge Tucker, Jr., was born in Warsaw, Va., and is twenty-eight years of age. Three years later his father removed to Norfolk, as the rector of St. Paul's Church, where he spent a quarter of a century. The young man received his early education at the Norfolk Academy and from there went to the University of Virginia, where he received the degree of M. A. He next entered the Theological Seminary of Virginia, where he graduated in 1906. While at the seminary he passed the competitive examination and won the Rhodes scholarship for Virginia at Oxford College, England. In October of that year he entered that institution, graduating with the highest honors last June. Thus eminently qualified for the sacred calling to which he had decided to devote his life, Mr. Tucker returned to his mother's church in Norfolk, applying to his "mother church" for ordination to the diaconate.

In Third Son. Mr. Tucker is the third son of Bishop Tucker. He is of distinguished lineage, being a descendant of John Augustine Washington, brother of George Washington, on his mother's side. His being Miss Washington before marriage, and on his father's side he is connected with John Randolph.

The eldest son, St. George Tucker, is a missionary in Japan and president of St. Paul's College in Tokio. His brother, St. Augustine, is a medical missionary in China.

IN HONOR OF VETERANS.

Contract for Monument at Bedford.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

At a meeting Saturday morning of the joint committees of the Joseph E. Johnston Camp, U. S. Confederate Veterans, and the William R. T. Johnston Camp of the United Daughters of the Confederacy the contract to erect a monument to the Confederate soldiers of Bedford was awarded M. J. Falvey, of Washington, whose bid was the lowest. The monument is to be forty feet in height, including the base and spire, a shaft of Barre granite, with an emblem of war and inscription; the base ten feet square. The entire cost will be $3,800, the work to be completed in May, 1909. The committee, which consisted of Major S. Griffin, Captain T. S. West, Major W. H. Mosby, Captain N. C. Luck, of the camp; Mrs. S. Griffin, Mrs. Nelson Sale, Mrs. R. E. Clayton, Mrs. W. J. Phillips and Mrs. E. D. Gregory, of the chapter of the U. S. D. C., and the chapter of the U. S. D. C., 1906, and effected an organization by electing Major Griffin chairman; Mrs. W. J. Phillips was chosen treasurer and Mrs. E. D. Gregory, secretary. Since then the committee has held many meetings and considered the designs of many contractors.

There was a division of opinion as to selecting the design of a plain shaft or a monument crowned with a suitable figure in standard bronze, but when the final vote was taken the majority were in favor of the shaft.

TOBACCO SALES GREATLY INCREASE OVER LAST YEAR

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

LYNCHBURG, VA., September 6.—The sales of tobacco on the Lynchburg market during the past week were considerably heavier than during the week previous, the sales taking quite a boost over the same period in 1907. The offerings during the week aggregated $37,000, an increase of $4,800 over the week previous. The total sales since the beginning of the present season are $53,100, or $26,700 pounds more than at the same time last year.

The offerings thus far have been of primings, and the grades were about the average, the leaf being large, an indication that the crop is going to be of a large leaf. The prices and demand have been good.

The weather during the week was almost perfect for the tobacco in the field.

Campbell County Court.

A CLEVER OLD FOX

A striking portrait taken within the past month of Abdul-Hamid, Sultan of Turkey. Up to within the past few weeks there were no really authentic portraits of the Sultan in existence, but since granting a constitution to his subjects the Sultan has become so popular with masses that he has regarded it as safe to come out of his retirement, and he has consequently appeared several times in public in the streets of Constantinople during the past month. Upon one of the occasions this photograph of the ruler of Turkey was secured.

Petersburg News

Times-Dispatch Bureau, 103 North Sycamore Street, Petersburg, Va., Sept. 6.

An accident occurred this morning between 12:30 and 1 o'clock on the Norfolk and Western tracks, just west of the freight yard, which resulted in the destruction of one passenger car and the jumping of another into the river. The road is double-tracked between the freight yard west to the Fleet Street crossing with a sharp down grade between the two points. The two passenger cars, for convenience, had been transferred up to a point near Fleet Street, where they had been left standing. How they got started from their place is not definitely known, but they ran on down toward the freight yard, gathering considerable speed on the way, until they collided with a shifting engine on the track. The engine was somewhat damaged, the front car of the two was broken to pieces and rolled over to the right of the track, and the second car was derailed and thrown a somersault down the embankment into the river, landing right side up. To what extent it is damaged is not known, as only the roof shows above the water. No person was hurt in the accident as there was no one in the cars at the time. All of the seats were removed from the wrecked car today.

The grocery store of J. O. Webb, corner of Union and Halifax Streets, was broken into and robbed last night of flour, meat and cigars. The front window was broken.

RALEIGH NEWS

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

RALEIGH, N. C., September 6.—B. C. Beckwith, attorney, is unable to accomplish the release of David Korneguy, the young white man from Fremont, who is in jail here for slipping away with his wife from his boarding house to avoid paying a board bill of $2. The only means of release that has appeared thus far is for someone to go on the $100 bond demanded by the magistrates, and no one knowing the prisoner here, a bondsman is not forthcoming. Mr. Beckwith has tried to get the case dismissed on the payment of the bond bill and the costs thus far in the case, but this cannot be done, as fine and imprisonment is the punishment prescribed in the statute. Mr. Beckwith is looking now into the question of taking out a writ of habeas corpus and testing the case of imprisonment for debt. The young wife of Korneguy, whom he says he married nine months ago, in Mount Olive, is alone, absolutely penniless. They came here in the hope that Korneguy could get work as a painter.

Wrecked Engine.

Some miscreant slipped into the cab of a locomotive that was standing on one of the spur tracks of the Seaboard Air Line freight yard here some time during last night, pulled the throttle wide, so the monster machine plunged down and off the spur, down an embankment, and nearly all the way across Johnston Street, where it was found this morning. The engine had been put on the spur because there was no room in the roundhouse to store it at that time. The fire was dying out else the dastardly act would have resulted much more seriously. The greater part of the day was required to get the locomotive back on the yards. The damage sustained by the plunge was not serious. There seems to be no clew to the culprit.

Exams for Teachers.

They have been prepared by the State Board of Examiners, of which State Superintendent J. Y. Spencer is chairman. This board will also grade the examination papers and issue the certificates.

ARMY OF SCHOLARS.

Lynchburg Soon Will Be Alive With Young People.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

LYNCHBURG, VA., September 6.—Randolph-Macon Woman's College, with 400 girls; Virginia Christian College, with 300 of both sexes, and Sweet Briar Institute, with 150 girls, all opening next week, will enliven Lynchburg from the standpoint of the student more than it has ever been, for the attendance upon all of these institutions will be larger than ever before.

Randolph-Macon will more than fill the newest dormitory, and Dr. Smith, the president, is now at work in the hope of having another new one for next year.

Sweet Briar, which is a few miles distant in Amherst county, from the city, goes into an additional dormitory, and the work on a boys' home at the Christian College is being hurried for occupation before Christmas. Next week ground will be broken for a college building to cost $30,000, in addition to $20,000 for the dormitory.

ELON COLLEGE NEWS

ELON COLLEGE, N. C., September 6.

The social event of the fall term occurred last evening from 8:30 to 10:30 o'clock in the parlors and corridors on the first floor of West Dormitory. The occasion was the annual reception given by the students by resident members of the faculty and their wives. The reception committee this year was composed of the members of the senior and junior classes. In the receiving line were President and Mrs. Moffitt, Professor and Mrs. Kernodle, Professor and Mrs. Cobb, Professor and Mrs. Harper, Professor and Mrs. Lawrence, Professor Wicker, Professor Pritchette, Professor Brannock, Misses Wilson, Ramsay, Pitt and Allen and Mrs. Pretlow. Vocal renditions were given by Misses Pitt and Clements and Miss Allen, who sang several selections to the delight of all. Quite a number of out-of-town guests were present and added to the enjoyment of the occasion.

The opening this year, being the nineteenth in Elon's history, is a most flattering one. The enrollment is considerably beyond what it was last year at this time and the total enrollment of the year bids fair to exceed by far any other opening of the college.

Professor W. P. Lawrence, of the chair of English, who spent the summer in study at Oxford University, England, has returned refreshed in mind and body.

Misses Wilson and Ramsay, of the Music Department, who spent the summer in study and travel in France and Germany, respectively, have returned and entered upon their work with much enthusiasm. Miss Allen, the new head of the Education Department, who is a graduate of three of the best expression schools in this country, is present and executing her arrangements for the beginning of the year's work.

NORFOLK IN THROES OF DESPERATE BATTLE BETWEEN THE 'INS' AND 'OUTS'

Although Present Political Struggle in Coast City Is Admittedly Occasioned by Need of Reforms, Jealousies and Pique Are to Blame for Bitterness of Struggle Being Waged for Supremacy.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

NORFOLK, VA., September 6.—The present political middle of Norfolk, while it is admitted that it was in the beginning born of the need of municipal reforms, is believed by unbiased onlookers to now be the outcome of factional strivings between "ins" and "outs" for supremacy in the government of this city is pointed out that for the past two campaigns no issues of importance have been advanced either by the good government or "ring" factions, upon which the voters of the city could divide, claiming that principles were involved. Throughout the last campaign no issues were presented, and it was plainly a case of who shall rule.

Its Origin.

The acute division in the local Democratic party came about in the Montague-Swanson gubernatorial campaign. Up to this time the well-known leaders, controlling the votes of the city by a good majority—Messrs. Trely, Dey, Prince and Jones—were together and undefeated in the modern annals of the city. In this memorable campaign Mr. Dey split away from his friends, supporting Montague. He was elected.

The division extended to local politics, and Mr. Dey, it is declared, was instrumental in forming the good government faction, giving the opposition their first real backbone. Opposition theretofore had been put down at the polls almost every time it raised its head, and it is charged, even by unfair means, when necessary.

At that time it was charged, and with some reason, it is said, that municipal affairs in the city were "rotten." It was charged that the town was wide open, and the municipal affairs poorly managed. Around the good government faction prohibitionists and reformers rallied, as did also the following of Mr. Dey. In 1904 they were victorious at the polls, and Dr. James G. Riddick was elected Mayor. They remained in power four years, but began to lose ground in 1906, and as early as last year "the handwriting on the wall" pointed to the overthrow of the reform movement.

The Game of Politics.

The change in the style of administration by the passage of a new charter and the formation of a board of control failed to work as smoothly as was expected. Dissatisfaction was created, and the opposition grew stronger. For two years both sides have been playing solely the game of politics.

Early this spring it was known that Mr. Dey was at odds with the other leaders of the Good Government faction. Differences of opinion and bickerings, it is said, had existed for months. The abolition of offices caused friends of Mr. Dey to lose out, and they were replaced by others.

Then came the announcement early in the campaign that Mr. Dey had again lined up with his old friends. The agitation of reforms in the House regulations of the city sprang up, and the Good Government faction advocated measures of stringent nature. These were forced through Council by the barest majority. Their import was to do away with screens, limit the number to seven, five, force wide open doors, abolishing the inside bars of hotels and restaurants, and a $1,000 license. The next bombshell was the vetoing of the ordinance by Mayor Riddick. He allowed only the ordinance curbing the higher license, shaved to $750.

Riddick With "Outs."

For months it had been rumored, and was even generally known, that the administration and Mayor Riddick were at odds; that they held to diverse opinions as to public questions. It was also known that as far as possible the Mayor was being ignored by the Good Government leaders. The "ignoring" business was general on both sides.

Naturally the public was prepared for the announcement that Dr. Riddick was with the opposition, and no great surprise was manifested when the announcement was made that he would be a candidate for re-election on the so-called "ring" ticket.

The campaign was bitter. The good government faction died hard, but against the Trely, Dey, Riddick, Prince and Jones faction it was early recognized that their defeat was assured. It proved to be an overwhelming defeat.

While the "ring" faction was divided over the congressional race, Mr. Trely and Jones, supporting Mr. Cabell, is recognized that no serious breach was sustained and all of the parties are solid for the new administration now in control.

The political game now goes on. Recognizing their defeat some time ago, the good government party, it is charged, ignored the minority, and it is now a case of "get even" and it is doubted if the majority will recognize the minority with any of the important committee appointments, if they are given any at all.
